

Wanted: A Curious Lawyer for a Curious Firm

We believe good lawyering starts with good questions. We're looking for a lawyer who enjoys solving unusual problems, learning new areas of law, and helping build a firm that values initiative, creativity, and sound judgment.

A little about us

Our philosophy is that each new file is an opportunity to build trust with clients, apply and expand our skills, and find a solution. Our practice is broad and spans professional negligence, administrative law, health law, children's law, and many other areas. We are a dynamic firm that ultimately seeks to provide excellent advice and meaningful solutions to our clients.

We also have a growing mediation practice, led by a retired justice of the Supreme Court of Prince Edward Island. We're fortunate to have that experience and perspective – and excited about where this part of our practice is headed.

A little about you

You're a lawyer who is curious, thoughtful, and interested in more than just one area of law. You like a good legal problem, but you do not lose sight of the client you're there to serve.

You're a strong communicator who relishes a challenging case. You enjoy figuring things out, asking good questions, and finding practical solutions.

You do not need a particular number of years under your belt. We are interested in finding the right person for our team and will consider candidates at any stage of their legal career. Compensation will be commensurate with experience (range of $80,000 - $120,000 plus bonus).

If your ideal career involves variety, autonomy, and flexibility for other pursuits that matter to you inside and outside the law, we'd like to hear from you.

For consideration, please send your resume and a brief cover letter to michael@solutionslegal.ca by October 30, 2026.
